ROGER W. BABSON ON BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS

Roger W Babson sums up the activities of building associations in such a terse and forceful manner that it merits wide publicity. It is an unqualified endorsement by an unprejudiced authority.

Hotel Miromar,
Pass Christian, Miss.,
March 11, 1922.

Mr. H. F. Cellarius,
Secretary of the U. S. League of Building and Loan Associations, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Dear Mr. Cellarius:

I am in receipt of a letter from Mr. K. V. Haymaker, requesting my opinion of building and loan associations (co-operative banks, as they are called in New England), and I would be remiss in a public duty if I did not respond.

The regular habits of purposeful saving which these associations have done so much to encourage, the sound methods of financing with gradual amortization which these associations were the first to inaugurate, the low cost of administration and the almost negligible percentage of losses, taken throughout the United States, conducted as they are through decentralized community effort and without profit, are results which must commend the work of these associations to serious-minded people.

It is my conviction that public-spirited citizens in every community throughout the country should interest themselves in their own local building and loan association. It is my hope that the two and a half billion dollars of the people's savings now invested in their own homes, locally where the savings depositors live, may soon increase to five billion.

The growth of these associations, indicating as it does the desire of a steadily increasing body of our citizenry through thrift and self-denial, to save, on the one hand, and on the other hand, to invest their savings in the most productive of all capital investments—the home—is one of the most encouraging signs of the times.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Roger W. Babson.

The Federal Building and Loan Association is a safe, conservative home institution, the outgrowth of thirty years' experience of the most successful Building and Loan Associations of the West. Office 2374 Washington Avenue.

Honeymoon Cottage Built And Equipped To Solve Problems

"The Honeymoon Cottage" has been completed. Within its portals people of Ogdan and vicinity will find a means for solving furniture and furnishing problems that not only confront the "honeymooners" but others as well. That is the purpose for which it has been constructed and fitted by the Ogdan Furniture & Carpet company, for it is built on one of the floors of the big furniture establishment.

Five rooms, just the type of a most modern bungalow, have been thus equipped including reception hall, living room, dining room, kitchen and bedroom.

The object is to show how furniture looks in the home, the proper arrangement of pieces, the proper kinds and styles of draperies, shades, floor coverings and wall paper—to bring out color harmony, matching and contrast. Through the arrangement of the "cottage" it is possible to show the error of under-furnished rooms.

and also the error of over-crowding. Proper lighting effects are shown as well.

Customers of the Ogdan Furniture & Carpet company may select suites or single pieces that they desire to consider for their homes, make an appointment with the salesman for a later date and then return to see their selections properly placed in the "cottage." In this way the customer will be able to see just how the furniture will appear, doing away with the bewildering effect which comes when many suites or pieces are seen at the same time.

The electric fixtures for the "cottage" have been placed by the Ogdan Electric Supply company, the plumbing fixtures by the T. E. Thomas Plumbing & Heating company, the tile and mantle by the Eccles Lumber company. Other than this equipment, the entire home is furnished by the Ogdan Furniture & Carpet company.
